textbooks have been standard schoolroom fixtures for as long as most living citizens of this country can remember many turn of the century students were introduced to reading through the moralistic mcguffey readers and struggled through the rather drab and colorless pages of volumes on history geography and civics in contrast today s textbooks contain not only narrative content accompanied by colorful photographs and graphics but also section and chapter exercises that are extended through the use of worksheets and other materials moreover the textbook and its related student materials are packaged together with teacher s editions and tests in grade level sets that amount to content area programs rather than mere texts

the book explores the state of social studies education within selected east asian societies and provides some insights into distinctive classroom practices in an increasingly volatile and unpredictable world the education of young people who both understand the contexts in which they are growing up and see the need for engaging with them is a top priority this task falls to social studies education which carries the responsibility for inducting young people into their social world and helping them to see the role they can play within it this is particularly important in east asia where strong economic growth long held cultural values and diverse political systems create an environment that challenges young people on multiple fronts this book with its team of regional authors shows how different societies in the region are dealing with these challenges and what can be expected from future citizens the book will appeal to policy makers researchers and teachers interested in the current state of social studies education in east asian societies this book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation authors voices come from a variety of contexts some historical some contemporary some providing analyses over time but they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity belonging and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative the authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider this book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks the concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts
